

May Day Celebration Will Be Held May 2

Coronation, Parade Will Highlight Annual Festivities

The annual SuKy-sponsored May day celebration has been tentatively set for May 2, Sam Ewing, president of the pep organization, announced yesterday.

The pepsters have applied to University officials for permission to hold the festivities that day, but approval has not yet been granted, Ewing said.

With Ewing and Billie Jackson, vice-president, as co-chairmen in charge of general arrangements, highlights of the festivities will be a parade of floats, and the crowning of the May queen on Stoll field.

A meeting of all SuKy members, for the purpose of selecting the theme of the celebration, will be held at 5 p.m. Wednesday in Room 206 of the Union building.

SuKy, which plans to enter a float of its own in the parade, will partially subsidize the other floats entered by sororities, fraternities, and other campus organizations. Ewing stated. Trophies will be awarded to the best float entered.

Plans for election of the queen and two attendants will be in charge of the student legislature.

Ross Hunter, chairman, Dick Clinkenbeard, and Weldon Coblin will be in charge of the parade, while Mary Kemp, chairman, and Louise Wilson compose the float committee.

STAFF MEMBERS TO ATTEND MEET

Gym Convention Will Draw 25

About twenty-five University faculty members will attend the 14th annual convention of the southern district of the American Physical Education association Wednesday through Saturday in Louisville, Prof. M. E. Potter, head of the physical education department, announced yesterday.

Also attending the meeting will be several physical education students, who will demonstrate and exhibit certain phases of college physical education.

Dr. Potter, who was elected permanent secretary-treasurer of the organization in 1939, said that approximately 600 delegates were expected to attend the meeting. The University delegation will make its headquarters at the Brown hotel.

Prof. W. A. Heinz of the hygiene department and Major E. V. Graves of the State Board of Education, Richmond, Va., will serve as consultants of health education during the convention, Potter said.

Prof. Potter will preside at the annual luncheon Thursday at the Brown hotel. Dean Sarah Blanding is also scheduled to address the group that day.

Prof. C. W. Hackensmith and Peter Kurachek of the physical education department will conduct sessions on Thursday. Professor Hackensmith has chosen as his subject the "Need and Value of the Intramural Program in the Public School," while Kurachek will address the group on "Present Practices and Methods of Supervising Practice Teaching in Physical Education."

Prof. Maurice Seay of the education college, president of the Kentucky Education association, will speak at the Friday session on "New Emphasis in Education and Teacher Training Arising from the Drive for National Defense."

Ab Kirwan, head football coach at the University, will address the group the final day on "Modern Trends in College Football."

FINAL FORUM TO BE THURSDAY

Lecture, Discussion Will Close Series

Dr. Richard Weisner, director of social hygiene and health education of the Cincinnati public health federation, will conclude the YW marriage forum series by discussing the personal aspects of marriage at 7:15 p.m. Thursday in the Y lounge.

Doctor Weisner's lecture will be based on results of research of the makings of success in marriage. Emotional, social, and religious factors, economics facts, budgets and security attitude of parents, mutual responsibilities and leisure adjustments are to be considered.

Treatment is to be very elastic and will follow student interest in order to make it as vitally effective and significantly worthwhile as possible, according to the committee. A discussion of 30 minutes will follow the lecture.

Doctor Weisner, who received his A.B. and M. D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, has a background of social and personal hygiene and marriage education. He is married and has three children.

Joe Massie will preside at the forum. He and Janet Fergus, chairman of the YW-YM campus service committee, have been in charge of the four programs, which have included discussions of courtship, and the medical aspect of marriage for men and women.

ISHMAEL SIGNS WITH PRO CLUB

Fullback Drafted By Detroit Lions

Charles (Dutch) Ishmael, fullback on the University of Kentucky's 1940 football team, has signed a contract to play for the Detroit Lions in the National Professional Football league, it was revealed Saturday. Ishmael, a senior, performed as a regular for the Wildcats during past two seasons.

Ishmael was one of Kirwan's best backs last year and attracted considerable attention by the drive and power he displayed in the Georgia Tech game at Louisville. The Engineers were unable to halt the Pikeville Plow who carried everything before him.

The Lions drafted Ishmael at the close of the season and offered terms that were acceptable to him.

He probably will report to the Lions late this summer to begin training. Ishmael was one of the four Kentucky players drafted by professional clubs. Others were Dave Zoeller, halfback; Jim Hardin, end; and Joe Bailey, center.

Oratorical Contest Set For Wednesday

Three students will compete in Patterson Literary society's annual all-University oratorical contest to be held Wednesday, in Room 205 of the Union building.

Entrants are Martin Snyder, Lexington, and Lawrence Sherman and Asher F. Seale, both of Pineville. Speeches may be made on any subject and are limited to 15 minutes, contest officials said. Winner of the contest will be awarded a prize valued at $25.

French Festival Planned

Plans for the Mi-Careme festival to be held April 5 for the French clubs of Kentucky, will be discussed by Le Cercle Francais, at 7:30 p.m., Thursday at the home of Prof. Blaine Schick, Harold Dunn, accompanied by his coach, Lieut. Charles Wright.

NICHOLS TO PLAY AT QUEENLESS JUNIOR PROM

Dance Will Be Saturday In Union; Tapping Banned

Without time out for the customary crowning of the queen and Lances' tapping ceremonies, Red Nichols and his 14-piece orchestra will furnish the rhythm for the Junior prom Saturday night in the Union Bluegrass ballroom.

Since the program committee has decreed that there will be no Junior prom queen and no tapping by the Junior men's honorary, this will be the first time in many years that the two features have not been a part of the prom.

Called the "surprise sensation of 1940" by George Simon, reviewer for Metronome magazine, Nichols' orchestra is accompanied by Lorraine Barre's vocals and the leader's trumpet solos.

The "Five Pennies" group, which made the band famous ten years ago, is still with the organization. Many of the recordings that Nichols made with the popular quintet are still popular here and abroad.

Nichols began his musical career at the age of three, when he learned to play a tiny silver trumpet. Two years later he played "America" as a trumpet solo before the student body of Weber college, Ogden, Utah. Soon afterwards he won a musical scholarship to Culver Military academy in Indiana.

After leaving Culver military academy the trumpet enthusiast toured the country with the "Synco-pating Five" and later formed his "Five Pennies" for his first appearance in New York.

Nichols was featured in five editions of "Earl Carroll's Vanities" and conducted the orchestras of George Gershwin's Broadway productions, "Strike Up the Band" and "Girl Crazy." His orchestra has been broadcasting regularly since 1928.

Members of the prom program committee are Lida Stoll, chairman, and Betty Roberts, Margaret Cantrell, Rosemary Brown, and Clayton Robinson.

RIFLEMEN TAKE SECOND PLACE

Brown Carries Off Individual Honors

Firing 196 points for the University ROTC rifle team, Chester C. Brown carried off individual scoring honors as the UK riflemen placed second in the William Randolph Hearst Trophy matches, it was announced yesterday. Twenty-five teams of the Fifth Corps area competed.

Only seven points below the winner, the University rifle team fired a total of 936 points while Ohio university amassed 943. In third place, three points below the local marksmen, was Indiana university, champions of the Fifth Corps area. The members of the University team who competed in the competition were M. E. Mitchell A. L. Davis, H. R. Graviss, J. H. Feamster and Brown.

Besides the three leaders, the 10 highest scoring units include Indiana university's second team, 927; University of Cincinnati, 914; University of Akron 911; Culver Military academy 910; West Virginia university, 910; University of Cincinnati's second team, 906; and Culver Military academy's second team, 902.

Draft Session Set For Today

The Union's first draft session will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. today in the Union Bluegrass room. Highlights of the program will be the enlistment and distribution of number tags at a tent erected at the entrance to the encampment; the drafting of a colonel and his lady from the conscriptees registering at the Camp Bluegrass outpost, a melody of war songs with a piano solo by Ann Burton; and military tapdances.

Gerald Cundiff's orchestra, directed by David Mahanes, will provide the music.

UK Sharpshooters To Meet Tennessee

The University ROTC rifle team will meet the University of Tennessee marksmen in a shoulder-to-shoulder match Saturday morning in Buell armory, according to an announcement made yesterday. The Tennessee team will arrive in Lexington Friday night accompanied by its coach, Lieut. Charles Wright.

50 Students Take Quizzes As Kernel-Union Sponsored Safety Driving Contest Opens

YW Takes Lead In Group Division Of Competition

Piling up an early lead in the first day of the Union-Kernel sponsored Safety Driving contest, the YWCA took first position in the group participation division, scores compiled yesterday afternoon show.

Individual high scores were made by Ansel L. Davis, Hazard, in the men's division, and by Jane McDaniel in the women's.

"We had an unusually good turnout all day and it looks like we'll have a much bigger contest than we had hoped," Bill Karraker, co-chairman of the contest committee said as the first day's results were recorded.

More than 50 students registered for the driving quizzes yesterday. Last year's contest saw a total enrollment of 79.

Close behind the YWCA in the group participation were the Pershing Rifle company, Triangle fraternity, and Chi Omega sorority, as 23 organizations entered members in the contest.

The contest will continue through Thursday morning of this week. Quizzes are given from 9 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 5:30 p.m. each day. Thursday, only the morning session will be held.

Registration and written examinations are given in Room 204 of the Union building under the supervision of Lieut. John Allman of the state police. A brief physical examination and a road sign quiz in Room 206 completes the indoor part of the contest.

Outdoor examinations are given in cars furnished by the Union and Kernel and are supervised by the state police instructors. Participants drive cars around the 2-mile test route in a fifteen minute test which includes parking, starting, stopping, and signals.

The examination is similar to the regular state driver's license examination but is made more detailed for the University safety contest. Participants who pass the University examinations may secure state driver's licenses by presenting their contest certificate to the local circuit court clerk.

Closing the contest program, Sergeant A. C. Carr of the state highway police will discuss "Safety on Kentucky Highways" at the weekly Union forum from 4 to 5 p.m. Thursday in the Union Music room.

Awarding of trophies to the winners of the men's, women's, and organization's division, will be made immediately following the discussion.

Attendance at this discussion is required of all participants in the contest who are competing for the trophies. Sonia Hagenbuch, co-chairman of the contest committee said yesterday.

Sergeant Carr, who has been with the state department for two years, initiated the "school boy patrols" and other safety programs in Kentucky schools.

He was instrumental in beginning the annual safety contest at the University which has since been copied at several other state schools. Kentucky is one of the few states in the south which sponsors the safety driving contest.

Seven members of the state highway police were at the Union building during yesterday's contest, two of whom came from Richmond to an "emergency" call from the Lexington police radio.

Heading the police detail is Lieut. Allman, commander, and Sergeants A. C. Carr and John Phythian.

Organizations represented in yesterday's tests were Chi Omega, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Lambda Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, YWCA, Home Economics club, Pershing Rifles, Glee club, Mortar Board, Kappa Delta, Pi Kappa Club, YMCA, American Student Union, WAA, Alma Magna Mater, K. Club, Triangle, Catholic club, Union dance committee, Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Nu, and Lamp and Cross.

Latimer To Speak

Dr. Clairborne G. Latimer, mathematics professor, will speak to the Kentucky chapter of Pi Mu Epsilon, national mathematics honorary fraternity on "Sum of Four Squares" at 4 p.m. Thursday in McVey hall, it was announced yesterday.

New Courses Are Scheduled For 1941 Summer Sessions

Dances, Concerts, Convocations To Break Routine

Breaking into the routine work of the 1941 summer session, extra-curricular events such as convocations, concerts, receptions, tours, and dances will play a prominent part in the summer school schedule released by Dr. Jesse E. Adams, director. Commencement on Friday, August 22, will terminate the round of events.

Archery, badminton, golf, social dancing, tennis, tap dancing, bowling, swimming, volleyball, modern dance, and recreational games will be open to summer students both terms, the physical education department announced.

The 1941 summer session, consisting of two terms, June 18 to July 19 and July 21 to August 23, will include several new courses in its schedule. Among these courses will be a new class in American diplomatic problems taught by Dr. Amry Vandenbosch, head of the History department, during the first term of the session.

18 History Courses
Eighteen different courses will be open to students in the history department. A new course, "History of Canada," will be offered the second term by Prof. E. L. Hall assistant history professor.

Prof. R. D. McIntyre, professor of marketing and salesmanship, announced yesterday that a new course in advanced salesmanship will be included in the first term summer school schedule. This course, although designed especially for high school and college teachers of salesmanship, will be open to graduate students. Persons prominent in the various fields of business will lecture to the class at several of its meetings.

Field Trip Planned
A three-week western field trip is being arranged for geologists who attend the first session of summer school. The area to be studied covers the Rock Mountains of Colorado and New Mexico.

The party will leave in the department truck on June 1 for Colorado Springs and will return June 22. Prof. A. C. McFarlan, head of the geology department, and Prof. D. M. Young, assistant geology professor, will be in charge. This work, while offered primarily for advanced students and graduates, is open for a few others with only one elementary course as a prerequisite.

Botany Field Trip
Because of the great demand for actual field work in botany, plans have been formulated to inaugurate such courses at Cumberland Falls during the second term of the 1941 summer session. Dr. Frank T. McFarlan, head of the department will be in charge of both elementary and advanced courses.

Patterson, Boyd, and Jewell residence halls and Shelby and McDowell cooperative houses for women will be open during both terms of the summer school, Dean Sarah B. Holmes, summer session dean of women, announced yesterday. Meals will be served at the University cafeteria in the Student Union. A breakfast will be served in the women's residence halls.

Bradley, Kincaid, and Breckinridge, residence halls for men, will be open for summer students.

PLANS APPROVED FOR $103,140 AG BUILDING

Experiment Farm Selected For Site Of New Structure

Plans for a new $103,140 Animal Pathology building to be erected on the University Experiment Station farm with the aid of the Works Progress administration were approved Friday at a meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees. Also approved was the application for aid from the WPA.

The two-story U-shaped building will be located southeast of the present Agriculture Engineering building, of a similar design. The plans were drawn up by Frankel and Curtis, Lexington architects.

The WPA application, as approved by the committee, requires that the University furnish about $61,000 to meet federal funds.

Facilities Inadequate
Although the department of animal pathology is recognized all over the country for the quality of its work, present facilities have long been inadequate, Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, acting president of the University, said.

The department, under the direction of Dr. W. W. Dimock, has contributed extensively to the knowledge and cure of diseases in all species of animals, but particularly in horses and sheep. Research in moon blindness in horses is now being carried on. Working with their paratyphoid group of bacteria, the University scientists receive, identify, and classify specimens from all over the world.

Work on the building will start immediately after approval of application by WPA authorities.

During the meeting the resignation of Dr. Lester Tarnopol, associate professor of metallurgy, was accepted. He will be succeeded by Francis T. McGuire of Notre Dame university.

Other resignations accepted were those of Miss Jane Dudley Murray, clerk in the markets and rural finance department; Noel Watson, field agent in cream grading; D. E. Waters, instructor in general chemistry; and Miss Mildred Wallerstein, secretary of the women's residence halls.

Miss Murray has accepted a position in Washington, Miss Wallerstein, one in Louisville, and Waters was called by the War department. Miss Sarah McCormick, a graduate of 1936, was chosen by the committee to replace Miss Wallerstein.

A five months leave of absence was granted to James Shropshire, director of the Board of Student Publications and the Union Board. A year's sabbatical leave was given to Paul K. Whitaker assistant professor of German.

Plans for an extended WPA state recreation project which calls for furnishing music and musicians for army camps met with the approval of the committee. This expansion is in addition to the project recently approved by the committee for building recreation centers near Fort Thomas and Fort Knox to take care of soldiers' "off time."

As state sponsor for WPA recreation projects, the University must approve the plans before they go to WPA authorities in Louisville and Washington, D. C., for final approval.

Present at the meeting besides Dr. Cooper, were Judge Richard C. Stoll, Lexington; R. P. Hobson, Louisville, Lee Kirkpatrick, Paris; H. S. Cleveland, Frankfort; and Business Agent, D. H. Peak.

Kuiper Addresses Philosophy Club

Giving special consideration to religious pacifism, Dr. John Kuiper, head of the philosophy department, spoke on "War and the Conscience Objector" at a meeting of the Philosophy club last night in Frazee Hall.

Doctor Kuiper discussed the status and treatment of objectors in various countries and wars, the reasons given for objection, and arguments for and against objecting. Discussion from the floor followed the address.

Barrett To Report To Col. Walters

Lieut. Col. William S. Barrett, who has been a professor of advanced military science tactics at the university for the past four years, received orders yesterday to report May 1 for duty with the infantry replacement center at Camp Walters, Texas.

Lieutenant Colonel Barrett will train drafted men sent there for infantry training before they are assigned to combat organizations.

Major Lysle Croft and Capt. Deroy Miles will assume the duties of Lieutenant Colonel Barrett, according to military officials.

Kohn, Koo To Speak On Campus Today

Simfonietta Greatly Improved Says Reviewer

By ROBERT MILES
Showing a marked improvement over its first concert, last fall, the University Simfonietta presented a musical program before an appreciative audience Sunday afternoon in Memorial hall. Dr. Alexander Capurso was the director and Mary Kapp Allton was violin soloist.

The Simfonietta is a small ensemble of select musicians, assembled to play music of finest quality. The organization is well-balanced and plays with a great deal of accuracy. The group showed greatest improvement in the brass and woodwind sections.

The "Concerto in E Minor for Violin and Orchestra" by Mendelssohn, was the most important composition on the varied and interesting program. Mrs. Allton expressed the mysterious lyricism and formal beauty of the first and second movements by means of a rich, full tone quality and a clear treatment of the rapid passages. The solo instrument and the orchestra were well integrated because of a smooth entrance of parts and sensible shading in the ensemble.

The vigorous and spritely third movement required intricate bowing and accurate intonation by the soloist. Descending harmonies in the strings and interesting counter melodies in the woodwinds and cellos enhanced the beauty of the movement.

Correct observation of rhythm and proper phrasing contributed to the attractive orchestral effects in the impressionistic composition, "Children's Corner Suite," by Debussy.

The clear prominence of each section of the orchestra in the contrapuntal composition "Overture to Orione" by J. C. Bach, was effected by means of proper observation of dynamics.

"Prelude to Act III of La Traviata," by Verdi was played with an intense and expressive lyric beauty.

Annual YW Election Will Be Held Today

YW officers for the coming year will be voted upon from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 6:30 to 9 p.m. today at a booth set up across from the information desk in the Union building.

Candidates for president are Betty South, Frankfort, and Mary Olive Davis, Lexington; vice-president, Jeannette Graves, Lexington, and Jeanne Lancaster, Lebanon; secretary, Mary Garner, Winchester, and Dorothy D. Vaughn, Louisville; treasurer, Marion Bradford, Lexington, and Eloise Palmore, Frankfort.

The new president will choose her cabinet of chairmen of YW committees before April 8. Gladys Kilpatrick, retiring president, said.

Other retiring officers are Miss South, vice-president; Doris Zenger, secretary; and Billie Raymond, treasurer.

Czech, Chinese Leaders Slated For Convocations

Two internationally famous speakers, one from China, and the other from Czechoslovakia, will speak on the campus today.

Dr. Hans Kohn, who came to this country in 1933 from his native home, will give an address entitled "Force or Reason," at the general convocation at 10 o'clock this morning. Dr. T. Z. Koo, Chinese leader of the World Student Christian federation, will speak on "Facts about China" at 3 p.m. this afternoon. Both lectures will be in Memorial hall.

The international Relations club will have a dinner meeting at 6:30 tonight in the Union building at which Doctor Kohn will be the guest speaker.

Second Speech Slated
Dr. Koo will speak again at 7 o'clock tonight in the Music room of the Union building. Bill Karraker, president of the YMCA, will preside.

Dr. Kohn has studied the rise of nationalism in Western Europe its expansion, and the problems it has created in the Central European countries. This year he received a Guggenheim fellowship which has permitted him to devote more time to completing the first volume of a history of nationalism.

As the result of contacts made during a lecture tour in the United States in 1931, Dr. Kohn received a professorship of modern European history at Smith College. He is now a citizen of the United States.

Was a War Prisoner
Dr. Kohn was an officer in the Austrian Imperial army during the World War, but was taken prisoner by the Russians in 1915. While he was in Siberia and Russia from 1915 until 1920, he began studying contemporary political movements and gained direct insight into the Russian revolution.

Doctor Koo, a native of Shanghai, China, is now lecturing to students all over the world as a representative of the Student Christian federation. He will discuss the Far-Eastern situation with emphasis on the aftermath of the present war. Dean F. P. Boyd will preside at the afternoon convocation.

A fluent speaker of English, he discusses the war in the Orient as a statesman of the New Day, with complete understanding of the causes and without rancor.

Doctor Koo is a graduate of St. John's university, Shanghai. For nine years an administrator of the Chinese Railway service, he joined the staff of the national committee of YMCA in China, with responsibility for colleges and universities.

A One-half Minute Course In Statistics

It's a strange paradox of the day that youth, the generation which prides itself on having grown up with the automobile, kills more people with this weapon than does any other age group alive.

Of the $6,500 persons slaughtered on the highway last year, over 27 percent of them were between the ages of 18 and 24.

And of 1,374,400 persons involved in non-fatal wrecks during the same period, 23.8 per cent of them were of college age. This gives colleges an all-around batting average of 25 per cent, or one out of every four on record.

Now these, it is true, are on paper nothing more than loathsome statistics. But translated into bodies resting in caskets and groaning youngsters lying in hospital beds, they don't seem quite so figurative or so objective. They seem all too real if anything.

Chance To Improve Your Standing

If the students want to bad enough, they can make this the most informative one day in the recent history of the University. Certainly the raw material for it is there: Hans Kohn in the morning and China's T.Z. Koo in the afternoon.

In fact, we doubt if there is anyone on the campus who can recall another time when two men with as much to say appeared on the campus the same day.

Hans Kohn, lecturer at Smith, Harvard, and other leading American universities, once lived in what used to be the Republic of Czechoslovakia. He witnessed the rise of the Nazis, and saw Central Europe gradually lapse into irrationality. He watched the Czechs prove that democracy can work. He saw Germany's Weimar Constitution, the most perfect governmental document in history, sold out and its founders persecuted.

T. Z. Koo, often referred to as a "citizen of the world," is representative of the New China, which is doing all it can to hold off the Fascist drive in the Far East. We shall be especially interested to hear what he, a Chinese, thinks of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and the war effort against the Axis. Mr. Koo, as well, should have plenty to say.

So, as we said before, we believe today should be the most informative of the year. It would probably even help your standing to go to Memorial hall once or twice during the next few hours.

Concerning UK's Most Disreputable Hat-And Its Amazing Owner

BEHIND IVIED WALLS By ALLENBY E. WINER

The four years one spends in pursuit of a diploma (something folded over twice so you can't see what's inside, opines James Thurber) are educational in more than one sense; for instance, when measured by the number of interesting acquaintances one has had in that time. More than often we have found that a stimulating verbal session with a profound classmate-friend or even, if the occasion demanded, with a be-whiskered tramp was exactly the sedative to revive us from the monotony of scholastic routine.

One of our most interesting college associates, a person with whom we have whiled away many interesting hours over doughnuts and coffee and other refreshing beverages in various halls about the settlement, is known as the "man with the hat". Fred Knapp of Pittsburgh, New York City, Schenectady, Austria and several other places.

Now Fred is a well-rounded gentleman and despite his attendance at school he has managed not to neglect his education. He is a pretty fair painter; he reads voraciously of the good books, fancies, plays the violin, accordion, harmonica, piano, and a bit of boogie; he likes boogie-woogie music, is an ace on the classics, and looks like Abe Lincoln when neglecting to shave; he plays ping pong, once ran with the track team, eats at all hours, and likes New York City.

An integral part of his makeup, Mr. Knapp's hat is a profound object of an old species. Once a style-setting fedora in the good old days of 1936

To Cure A Lack Of Information

It is no secret to members of the SGA and THE KERNEL staff that the general campus attitude toward the Student Government association is pretty sorry.

Or maybe it's just ignorance—lack of information—that is to blame for this apathy. And in that case something can be done.

In order that the campus may better know what the SGA is all about, we have asked John Long, clerk of the Legislature, to write a series of four articles for publication in this newspaper.

The first of the series, which is published elsewhere on this page today, deals with the student constitution. The remaining three will deal, in order, with the officers, the accomplishments, and the prospects for the future.

McVey Hall And Its Spurious Lift

Sunday night, while going upstairs to put some copy on the hook, we got stranded in the elevator again—this time between floors One and Two.

It wasn't exactly a new experience (fourth time since October, according to our marking system) but the wait this stall was forty-six minutes, which so far as we can learn is something of a record. No doubt there are those veterans who have more total hours, but we're pretty certain we now hold the record for the longest continuous wait.

In case you've never had experience with the McVey hall elevator, we feel you should know about it. It's one of the few elevators in Kentucky that can really be said to have personality.

A highly intelligent device, it can tell time and distinguish between persons. It knows almost to the second how much time you have—and it never bothers you unless you have fewer than three minutes to get to the place you're going. And it never bothers anyone unless he is a member of the radio or KERNEL staffs.

Some people even go so far to say it has the soul of an artist—and they may be right at that. No one, certainly, who has had dealings with it can deny it is temperamental. It hates to be dictated to and if you try to hurry it along it will stop then and there and sulk. It has the spirit of an unbroken yearling and the arrogance of an eagle. It is an individualist in the extreme.

But, despite all these likeable traits—likeable, that is, against one's better judgment—we feel it's time McVey hall's elevator was taken in hand. It's a mechanical Quisling of a sort, and you can never be quite sure if a Quisling's kidding.

or thereabouts, it has weathered the elements in sundry climes, and has become so pliable that any shape it may assume is purely coincidental. It is a brown thing that doesn't set like ordinary hats, but just drapes.

Were Mr. Knapp to part with this lovable relic, it would be a catastrophe, indeed, for it has become a part of him. (It is rumored in usually reliable sources that he also possesses a neat gray fedora which he neglects to honor). Some say the brown hat, shrouding over him, gold-rimmed spectacles and a sharp nose make the erudite Frederick look like a hawk.

The erstwhile fedora just seems to "belong". Fred likes to study people and spent the entire summer vacation last year slouching about in New York City, painting characters down in the Bowery or up in Central park, or reading the complete Thomas Wolfe who, incidentally, has exercised a powerful influence upon him.

On some days he browsed in libraries and museums of art and science and history, or rode elevateds and subways and stood on crowded street corners just to enjoy the human conglomeration that is New York.

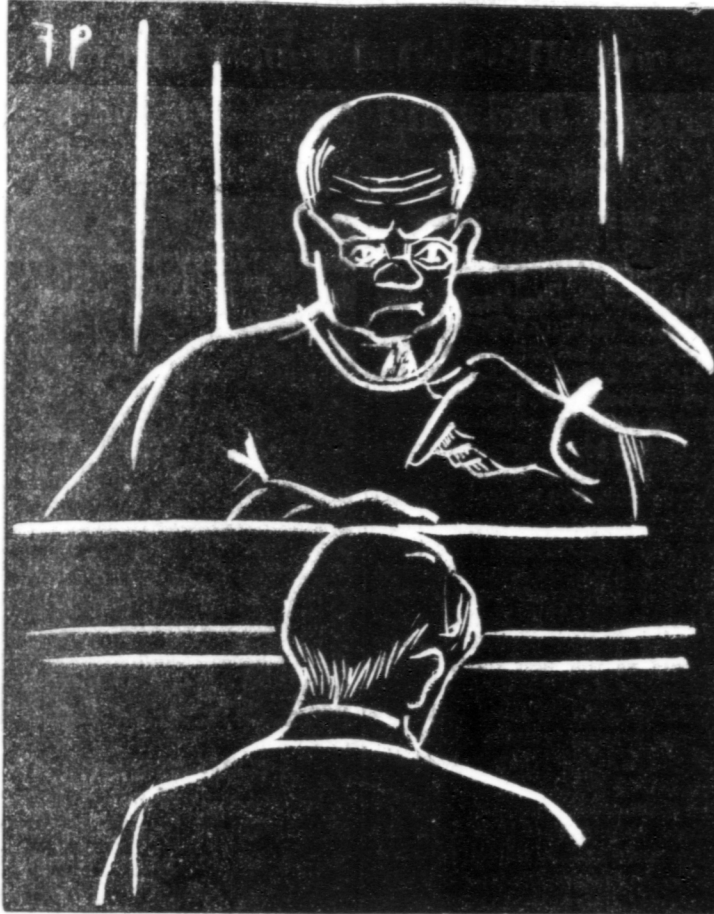

Mr. Knapp may be found almost any afternoon in the Carnegie music room resting through several selections or in the library browsing room where he goes in for heavy browsing in lieu of regular sleeping hours which he invariably devotes to reading.

Traffic Court: It Could Be You

Wise ... and otherwise

By BOB AMMONS

Last Friday's spring style edition reminded us of a sign we noticed in a women's shop downtown. It said:

EVENING GOWNS

20% OFF

That's just how they looked to us, too.

"Fifteen out of every hundred university women are knock-kneed," says a report by the physical education department of a northern school. We won't believe it until we examine the evidence.

We're mighty disappointed with our most recent attempt to start something big. You see, we came across some figures on how certain munitions and steel companies cashed in on the World War which cost the lives of so many American soldiers. We thought they surely would inspire someone to start a Committee to Defend America against War-time Profiteers, or something of the sort. So we stopped one of our friends, "Did you know," we asked him indignantly, "that one munitions factory increased its net earnings from $2,800,000 in 1914 to $18,300,000 in 1915?"

Our friend nodded understandingly. "This munitions business sounds like a good proposition. How do you go about getting in it?"

The premier of Turkey is named Refik Saydam. If Adolf Hitler keeps on tormenting Turkey, that's just about what everyone will say.

"Butter beans were first grown in North America by the red man," says a filler. As far as we're concerned, they can give them back to the Indians, too.

According to reports from Europe, every minute that passes finds Adolf Hitler and his cohorts farther behind the British. We seem to recall an old saying—something about "time wounds all heels."

Says Display Of Flag On Campus Being Neglected

To the Editor of The Kernel:

As one of the original promoters of the flag-pole fund some years ago, I wish to call attention to our occasional neglect of the display of the flag.

In the minds of many of us the flying of Old Glory indicates the period of the University's working sessions. It seems to me that the flag officer ought to raise the flag promptly at 8 o'clock each day of the session and to lower it at 12 on Saturdays and 4 or 4:30 on other days.

Another point on which the voice of experience may speak a profitable word is the difficulty encountered on stormy days. Two of our former flag poles were snapped in high winds because the flag then used was too large. To meet this difficulty we procured a small but sturdy flag better adapted to heavy rain and wind.

I am wondering whether we might not be more careful in this matter in view of the fact that the University is a considerable military post in itself, and sets an example in flag etiquette for other institutions.

Hooey Pollui

By LYS WALLACE and BROWNE

Chio Frances Whitfield, a true Gawgia Peach, took off this week-end for the Delt dances at Georgia Tech. This reminds us of the kidding she took about her Delt love from Gus Petro and the rest of the Sigma Nu Chapter at the Tech-Kentucky basketball game awhile back.

Embarrassing situation of the week: ATO Roger Thornton suddenly found himself with two dates for the Engineer's Ball, when a girl from his home town arrived unexpectedly. (P.S. He took Kappa Martha Thompson.)

Dispatch received through the mail: "We want you to know we give Susan Jackson an A-1 rating on her birthday cakes. We're having two birthdays each now. The KA's."

A romance that has survived the winter became a pinning with the first days of spring when ATO Jim Johnson pinned Kappa Sue Ewing Saturday night. Sigma Chi Skid Garrett also succumbed to the urge to pin and lit his badge upon Margaret Lundy last week.

We are told that SN Sloan "Slick" Griffin is really nuts about KKG Marge McNeal and from the looks of things the feeling is mutual.

Alphagam Betty Bottorff has been wearing a beautiful Lambda Chi ring recently. Her sorority sisters are wondering whose it is, but we know.

Sigma Nu C. W. Maloney thinks KD Betty Rees is awfully cute and says he could go for her in a "beeg way."

Alpha Sig Gerry Fifield is having red-head trouble with Isabel Peacher and Laura Lyons.

SAE Bobby Stone, who has a job in Frankfort, is elated because pine AGD Loretta Punk has moved home and is now commuting to the campus.

Here it is, "Kempie"—Mary Meg-lone Kemp.

Seen around: Athlene Evans and Claude Hammond playing ping-pong together daily; Aurie Robards rushing Alpha Xi Rachel Strother; Peaches Snyder "coke-ing" with Phi Dett Atlee Wilson; Phi Sig Woody Belcher looking interested in Alphagam Harriet Osborn.

ATO Lee Brummett enjoying a tweet on Tri Delt Bryan Hutchison; Harold Trader trying to beat Billy Black's time with Ruby Jo Gevedon; Cy Holmes studying with Ebbey Ellis; Beateous Ellen Murphy and Walter "call-me-Buddy" Ruby being true to each other.

Taylor To Describe 'Kentucky Lore'

Ruben Taylor, LaGrange, a University alumnus and Rhodes scholar, will speak on "Kentucky Lore" at a meeting of the University Woman's club at 3 p.m. today in Patterson hall. Dean Sarah G. Blanding will preside.

During the World War Ruben joined the British Expeditionary forces and later transferred to the United States army. After the war, he became a professor of English at Michigan State, and later was on the staff of the New York Times.

SGA Needs Students' Interest

STUDENT GOVERNMENT By JOHN LONG

I: THE CONSTITUTION

When we think of student government, we usually think of an organization which regulates student activities so as to favor the greatest number of students without unduly restricting the activities of the rest. We also think of it as an organization which initiates programs for student welfare.

Confusion arises, however, when we begin to think about these ambiguous terms, "student activities" and "student welfare." It arises again when we consider just how far student government may go before it gives way to the administrative authority of the University.

It is just such confusion as this that today exists in regard to the SGA—confusion which may best be attributed to lack of knowledge. And since approximately fifty cents of each student's semesterly registration fee goes to support the student government, we might do well to find out what it's all about.

MORE THAN A MERE LEGISLATURE

The SGA is more than just a group of popularly elected individuals; it is more than just a legislature. It is an organization whose activities affect every student on this campus. Potentially it is the most effective force for student benefit that the University has ever had.

The SGA superseded the former class organizations in September, 1939, when the student body ratified the constitution. This constitution is a charter which vests in the SGA an authority superior to that of any other student organization on the campus.

The charter provides for:

- 1) Enactment and enforcement of legislation dealing with all student conduct and all campus affairs which are not primarily of an academic or administrative nature.
- 2) securing better faculty-student cooperation.
- 3) Working for coordination of the various organizations on the campus.
- 4) Recommending to the appropriate administrative agency certain courses of action for the interest of the student body.

CHARTER COULD BE CLEARER

There is no clear-cut indication as to when the power of legislation ceases and the power of recommendation begins; however, academic programs involving such things as problems of curricula and class attendance and matters of University financial administration are considered beyond the legislative control of the SGA, while most "out-of-classroom" campus activities are under its jurisdiction.

For the realization of this purpose, the constitution provides for a student Legislature and various officers to be elected by the student body and provides for several standing committees to be selected by the legislature.

THE STANDING COMMITTEES

The standing committees include:

- 1) A finance committee which regulates the money collected and expended for the maintenance of the student government.

2) A social committee which regulates the social activities of the campus by requiring that every social function, before being placed on the social calendar, be approved by the committee.

3) A student publications committee which selects the paid staff members of student publications and awards all contracts relative to student publications.

4) A student welfare committee which is an investigating and policy-forming group on general student welfare, teaching and curriculum problems, and faculty-student relations.

5) A student standards committee which concerns itself with standards and regulations of student conduct by reporting and adjudicating violations of established standards of personal and social behavior in the University.

STUDENTS MAY MAKE OR BREAK

While not concerning ourselves with all the advantages and disadvantages of student government, we should realize that (in theory at least) the SGA is the best possible means of expressing student interest.

Through its powers of investigation, legislation, regulation, and recommendation the SGA is capable of securing almost anything the students want—if they want it badly enough.

The success of the association depends, in the final analysis, upon the general student body.

Offers Advice To Public, Greeks, Barbs And Others

To the Editor of The Kernel

(and others):

Please permit me to express a few thoughts which directly conflict with your editorial policy on the subject of fraternity hazing or Hell Week. I am not a member of any fraternal group on this campus and speak as an interested observer of the commotion aroused on this campus by the topic.

TO THE PUBLIC:

The so-called Hell Week is not a blood-thirsty and inhuman affair that destroys the physical and mental capacities of our much-pampered and softened first semester freshmen.

I can not recall any specific act of violence on this campus occasioned by fraternities on their neophytes that were not directly due to the careless and voluntary act of the individual himself.

I believe that your statistics will show that the composite fraternity membership scholastic standing will compare favorably with any other representative group on the campus.

TO THE GREEKS:

Why don't you stop antagonizing those who seek to destroy you either through envy, distaste, or well-founded prejudices. Why don't you quit waving the red flag at the bull ... to antagonize the Independents, the faculty and the townspeople?

Why don't you use a little of the common sense you credit yourself with the confine our activities to the privacy of your individual houses and quit publicizing your: horror tales which in fact aren't true? The complained-of element is one of the main unifying factors of your organization and a part of your reason d'etre which will be the element that destroys you if you don't use common sense.

TO THE INDEPENDENTS:

Why is it so hard for you to realize that what a fraternity does to its members who are voluntary members and desirous of admission is absolutely none of your business?

Why don't you stop to think that the men who belong to them are of the same physical composition as yourselves and that the horror tales you hear are to publicize simplicity of the organizations? You don't have to join fraternities and in fact most of you couldn't, and why should you be concerned if an individual whom you consider to be beneath you wants to submit himself to these "brutal and gory physical outrages?"

Did you ever stop to think that some men enjoy the benefits and requirements of an organization and even the horse-play that accompanies the membership?

Any man who belongs to a fraternity will tell you truthfully that his Hell Week was one of the most enjoyable features of his Freshman year. He won't be falsifying.

TO THE KERNEL, LEGISLATURE, STUDENT STANDARDS COMMITTEE AND ALL THOSE GOOD INFLUENCES FOR RIGHTING THE CIVIL WRONGS:

Why don't you realize the futility of the plan you are attempting to adopt in regard to the problem?

Instead of advocating complete abolition of the so-called menace with a threat of complete abolishment of the fraternities as evil influences, a plan which you cannot and will not enforce, why don't you initiate a program among those involved; the fraternity men themselves through their representative body the Inter-fraternity council, a program that insists upon common sense and decency that places the groups on their honor?

You can't abolish the alleged menace. By persecution of the nature you use you only strengthen it. Why don't you use common sense that you advocate?

RETROSPECTIVELY:

Peeble man today, tomorrow, and forever has now as in the past that inherent desire to band together into organizations ... to have secrets and signs and mysticism. From childhood to Old Masonhood this desire prevails.

Then there is another type of feeble man who envies those to know the magic pass-word, but to no avail. So those feeble men attempt to destroy that which is absolutely none of their concern.

My prediction is that the Greeks will be here today, tomorrow, and forever, and the others will meddle in the affairs that don't concern them (by the grace of Hitler) to the end that we are all thoroughly disgusted ... and nothing is done.

The status quo is preserved ... Q.E.D.

Respectfully submitted

JOHN A. FULTON

Advocate of The Weary

(It is Transfer Fulton should stumble into a Hell Week as staged by some UK fraternities and honoraries, he would have even more grounds for being thoroughly disgusted.—Ed.)

Says Prewitt Is In Error About Wesleyan Hazing

To the Editor of The Kernel

John M. Prewitt's letter in Friday's Kernel contained a misstatement of fact which should be corrected and some irrational assertions which should not be allowed to go unchallenged.

Mr. Prewitt listed Kentucky Wesleyan as a college which prospered with a "Hell Week" which makes our look like daisy-picking contests. To get the record straight: Kentucky Wesleyan has never had fraternity initiations which could be so compared with those at the University.

Fraternity initiations at Wesleyan are of the mildest sort and are under the close supervision of a strict faculty committee; no initiation activities are permitted off the campus. The record of Kentucky Wesleyan is an argument against Hell Week, not for it.

Mr. Prewitt asserts the editor's opinions should not be "printed as the final opinion of the student body." This is a completely pointless statement, since the Kernel editorials have never been presumed to be the final opinion of the student body.

But if you were editor, Mr. Prewitt, whose opinions would you print as editorials? You write glibly of "a Kernel by all the students." Would you have every student write an editorial for every issue, or would you take a campus-wide vote on every question and write your editorials accordingly?

A newspaper's duty is to lead, not merely to echo current opinion. A Kernel which did not have and express an opinion of its own would be an uninteresting non-entity.

The other inconsistencies and pseudo-rationalizations in Mr. Prewitt's letter are so obvious that they should not fool anyone. I do not agree with the editor of The Kernel, but I insist that he deserves to be defended from such unreasonable attacks.

Dum-Dum Bullets

By DON LAIR

There's gonna be some changes made ... spring will attend to that. Already the campus romances and fair lassies of the female Hop-houses and other residences have blossomed out in either convertibles or reversibles. Scholars with over-taxed minds will change their way of living when they see any of the vaunted S.L.W.C.C. (short for snazzy lassie with classy class) proudly sporting a new frock.

Some changes in technique were observed even before the spring season made its debut. Honest John Conrad, BMOC, doesn't follow his courting style of old—not on a bicycle as he carried on the Hillel-meyer affair, nor a la foot as he did with Trent, but in a U-Pushum.

Jeff Wiedeman's return from Yale created a disturbance and a temporary triangle when he barged in on the Fish Mattingly-Adrienne Hill affair. The pond wasn't large enough for three so the fish bit on another line.

Ex-campus belle Jean Mergerle is reportedly coming back to the campus and Jimmy Coffee, the reminiscing soldier of the style shows says he won't be "at all" sorry to see lassie Jean.

Seeing the world through rose colored glasses:

Cack Holtevert, KD, and Mayor Morris, Phi Tau, seem to have been making the rounds together lately. Harold Trader, Sigma Nu's glamor pants, seems to be getting some what hepped up over Ruby Jo Gevedon, of the Alpha Xi clan.

Rumored that Jane Lancaster and Cecil Kittinger of Delta Tau Delta are exchanging those certain kind of glances.

Bud Servant is recovering from the Angie Jett pinning which caught him off balance. He is regaining his balance with Inez McDonald, pert little number from down town way.

Mickey Hale is awaiting the Sigma Nu's dinner dance with over-anxious anticipation. His gal from West Va. will hike the mountains to attend the struggle.

MIXED DOUBLES WILL TAKE PART IN BADMINTON

Softball Tourney Will Begin On Thursday

With mixed doubles in badminton forming a new title for intramural participants to try for, the Spring program of the Intramural department gets underway Thursday when the softball teams begin their season.

Entries are due by March 29 for the badminton mixed doubles which is being tried for the first time by the Intramural officials. Any men, who are unable to find teammates and wish to enter, may call Miss Margaret Warren, supervisor of WAA, and she will find a teammate for them. Cliff Bailey, senior manager, said.

With teams already practicing, the softball season will begin at 4 p.m. Thursday with a total of 21 teams entered in the fraternity and Independent leagues. Pairings in the playoff have not been announced.

The Independent league has six teams entered. They are the Indians, Breck Hall, Dirty Sox, K club, Alpha Xi Sigma, and the Hound Dogs. The fraternity league has been divided up into two divisions. In the first division are Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Nu, Delta Chi, Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Gamma Rho, Lambda Chi Alpha and Delta Tau Delta.

Division II has Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Alpha, Phi Tau, Gamma Tau Alpha, Triangles, SAE's, Alpha Sigma Phi, and Kappa Sigs. Forty-eight have entered the golf singles and 18 teams have been paired for the doubles playoff in this event.

There are 58 entered in badminton singles and 24 teams in the doubles of this game.

Dribbles

By HAROLD WINN

Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds say that outfielder Harry Craft's batting has improved, because he's holding steady and letting the ball come close to him before hitting. Last year, Craft's trouble was standing too close to the ball after hitting.

While Mayeville and St. Xavier settled their hardwood differences in the second round of the state high school tournament last week, Lee Huber and Carl Staker, former stars of those two schools, sat side by side at one end of Alumni Gym. St. Xavier won. (P.S. Lee did too.)

Madcap Maxie Baer, former heavyweight boxing champ, barely escaped being run down last Wednesday by a speeding motorist while doing road work in preparation for his April bout with Lou Nova. Might have been some kind hearted fight fan who wanted to protect Max and save Nova's time.

Two of the teams registered complaints last week in the Southeastern Conference swimming meet that they didn't have a three meter board, so officials ruled this event didn't count points for the meet. It's a good thing Kentucky kept quite about not even having a pool.

With national defense the talk of the day, the hunch players should have cleaned up on a three horse show parlay at Tropical Park last week. Ambuscade, Shot Up and Battle Won landed in the third spot and at $14.70, $6.20 and $15.90.

Mullins-Less Cats Punt Impressively

The Wildcat football squad entered the final two weeks of spring football with impressive punting exercises.

Most pleasing to the coaches were the performances of Phi Cutch-in, Tommy Zinn and Ermal Allen. These boys were getting off towering kicks which carried a long way, allowing the tacklers time to get down on the ball carrier.

Noah Mullins, stellar halfback who quit the squad last week is still absent from practice. Coach Kirwan says that he doesn't know whether the Versailles flash will rejoin the team or not.

"The first and only move is up to Mullins," he stated. "If Mullins returns," he added, "he will not be disciplined and will receive the same treatment as any other man."

Running Wild

By JOHN CARRICO

"The tumult and the shouting dies, the captains and the kings depart."

So runs the opening lines of Kipling's Recessional and so would run the tenor of anything that would be written about the 1941 high school tournament. The tumult and the shouting have died; the captains and the King have departed. But Kipling was afraid "lest we forget." We have no fears on that account, however, because the teams were too good and the play too exciting to forget so soon.

The Best Team Really Won

It was easy to see that the best team won the crown. Any die-hards who claim that their team would have won if they had gotten the breaks, is just high on a windy hill—with lots of wind. Inez had too much determination and spirit to let any team wrest the title from them.

They had a well-balanced ball club that knew how to shoot. Moreover, they had one of the most sportsmanlike coaches in the tournament. Williamson never kicked about a decision nor hardly changed expression when his team was given rough treatment by the officials.

Williamson and all the other mentors had plenty to kick about as far as the officiating went; we thought it was pretty bad. There was no partisanship displayed, but the arbiters let the games get out of hand at times and gave some rather spotty decisions. It appeared that their whistles were slow at times and too fast at others. The officiating was not up to the calibre that tournament officiating should maintain.

Need For New Field House Stressed

The crowd that filled the gymnasium to capacity and overflowed onto the floor stressed the imperative need of either the long-awaited field house or a larger gymnasium. The tournament managers were pleased no doubt to see the turnstiles click so often and so regularly, but to the average customer it was probably a pain in the neck.

We marvel at the patience of the fan who shells out for the right to battle with three other persons for the right of way on about a foot of hard-board—and then can't use it because the people in front of him are standing.

Coach Blue Foster of Newport high school intends to make a proposal at next month's meeting of the Kentucky High School Athletic association to move the tournament to Louisville.

"We'd all rather see the tournament here in Lexington," Foster said, "as the state University is the logical place to hold it. However, the facilities here are outmoded and when the gym is as crowded as it was Friday and Saturday, it is practically impossible to watch the games without standing. Perhaps if the tournament is held in Louisville once or twice the people in Lexington will wake up and get a suitable place to hold the tournament."

Some Action Should Be Taken

We would like to see this proposal gain enough momentum to galvanize the University authorities into taking some action about the present crowded conditions of Alumni gym. It's deplorable that someone outside the University has to force the issue and that the question should revolve around the high school tournament. It appears that our own needs do not warrant taking steps that will provide us with a new field house.

At least, though, the field house still has its hat in the ring and has not faded too far into the dim, dim past.

For him one first place—no points; a second place—four points.

TWO-MAN TEAM GAINS 7 POINTS Stephenson, Curtis Win First, Second In Loop Tourney

Letelle Stephenson won the high-board diving title and his team mate, Houston Curtis, finished second as Kentucky's two-man swimming team garnered seven out of a possible 10 points in the Southeastern Conference swimming meet held last weekend in the Georgia Tech pool.

Florida took first place in the meet while Kentucky, with only its divers entered in the annual event, finished in last place. The Catfish would have finished higher, if conference officials had counted the high-board diving event which Kentucky won.

As it was, Kentucky's only points for the meet were won when Stephenson and Curtis finished second and third in the low-board event which King of Tennessee won by a margin of nine-tenths of a point. Conference officials had ruled before the meet that the 3-meter diving event would be an official event, but only the 1-meter points would be figured in the meet standing.

This was done, because only two teams, Georgia Tech and Florida, have 3-meter boards.

Florida, who piled up a total of 81 points in the two day meet, finished far in front of the other five teams. Georgia Tech finished second with 35 points. Tennessee was third with 28 and Georgia with 20, Auburn with 12 and Kentucky trailed.

Clark Will Speak At Luncheon Meet

Dr. T. D. Clark, associate professor of history, will discuss "Kentucky" at the Y club weekly meeting today in Room 23-b of the Union building.

Chairmaned by George Shelley, the club is the recently-formed luncheon club composed of both men and women.

Dairymen Favored In Ag Tourney

The Dairy club, with the experience of one tournament already behind them, were the favorites to take the title as play began last night in the All-Agriculture tournament.

With eight teams competing for the title, the tournament will be concluded this Friday when the finalist meet in the Gym annex at 7 p.m.

Tomorrow night, the winner of the Block and Bridle club-Teacher's contest will tangle with the winner of the Poultry club-4-H club battle at 7 p.m. in the Gym annex.

UK's Lone Woman CAA Trainee Likes To 'Buzz Around Up There'

Coed Has Completed Six of Eight Flying Hours Required To Solo

By JIM WOOLDRIDGE

The little yellow monoplane circled slowly around the far corner of the Lexington airport, nosed-up slightly as it headed into the light wind and began settling, and finally eased down to a perfect three-point landing.

It taxied on toward the hanger and came to a stop as the motor was switched off.

Out of the filmy craft's cabin door climbed Billy Dyer, UK's lone woman student in the recently initiated CAA program, her long brown hair blown across her face.

"Mighty smooth up today, wasn't it, Bill," she said to her instructor, Bill Freize, as she unbuckled her parachute harness and walked toward the airport office.

"Smooth Landing"

"Yeah, and that was a mighty smooth landing, Billy," the instructor drawled.

Miss Dyer walked into the office and sat down to record her sixth hour of dual flying time in the airport's log book. As soon as she has completed eight hours of dual instructions, which should be near the end of the week, she will make her most crucial take-off—her first solo.

"I'm not scared at all. This flying is swell. It's great to buzz around up there and look down at the fields. They look just like postage stamps," she said.

"Any girl would like to fly. I believe, if she doesn't get rattled easily and lose her head. It's really safer than driving a car. You don't have to worry about flat tires or anybody bumping into you."

She cooks, sews, too

But Miss Dyer isn't just any girl. She can cook, knit, and sew with the best of them but that's about as far as her domestic traits go.

Kohn Disputes Fascist Views Of Anne Lindbergh's Book

Czech Leader Lauds Democracy At Convocation

Challenging the views of Anne Morrow Lindbergh, Dr. Hans Kohn, Tuesday morning's convocation speaker, declared that democracy is newer, more efficient, and thus better theory of government than the "new order" of fascism in Europe. The fascist ideal which Mrs. Lindbergh supports in her book, "The Wave of the Future," is merely an attempt to restore government to the autocratic theory which prevailed through ancient and medieval history, Dr. Kohn said.

Democracy's greater efficiency has been proved, the speaker declared, by the recent successes of British, Greek, and Chinese military forces over the superior enemies of the fascists.

Kohn addressed a near-capacity audience at the Memorial hall convocation. He was introduced by Dr. Amy Vandenbosch, head of the political science department.

Democracy's Got Going

"It is true that fascist nations made democracy look bad at the beginning of the present conflict, but after the latter got going they proved their incapacity," Kohn said.

Chamberlain and Daladier did not understand at first that their opponents had plans of world domination, the speaker declared, and added that many of America's isolationist Congressmen are in the same predicament.

"But Britain understands now. In July, 1940, she said No to Hitler's offer to peace for her surrender, and democracy made its first stand against the so-called yave of the future."

Britain Proves Efficiency

Since her awakening, Britain has proved more efficient than the fascist nations—especially Italy, who has prepared for 18 years for her part in the war and is now being defeated in Africa and the Mediterranean by smaller forces, the speaker explained.

German fascism is very efficient, Kohn admitted, but insisted that this could be attributed to the pre-war trained generation of civil servants, scientists, and engineers, which still is the foundation of the nation's economy.

Most Americans don't realize the importance of the present test of democracy's strength, Dr. Kohn added.

Mrs. Lindbergh is right when she says the wave is important and that when it sweeps across the waters it will crash against our shores and will cast spray over the land. In no period of history is it so necessary to understand the political conditions.

Synthetic Superiority

Last Wednesday night we met a pledge hurrying back to his fraternity house after getting off work at a near-campus store. He said he had only had four or five hours of sleep since Saturday and was pretty tired, but that he had better get on back to the house because this was to be the night of the "road trip" and the actives might be mad if he didn't show up on time.

He said he didn't much relish the thought of walking ten or twelve miles in the next few hours, but—well, after all it was Hell Week and he guessed he had to show the boys he could take it.

It looked like it was going to be pretty cold out there in the country, though, he added.

In that most peculiar pattern called Hell Week, the "road trip" always plays an important part. It is regarded by most advocates of hazing as being the climax, "the best part", of the initiation period. The theory behind it is that if you leave the boys stranded far enough out in the country and make them walk back, they will get to "know each other better," will "find out who has guts and who hasn't", and will, in general, emerge with a united pledge class with which to face the next three and one-half years.

It's a nice theory, and to some extent—a greatly overrated extent, incidentally—it works. And not only that, it gives the actives a feeling of superiority.

But there is another aspect of these "road trips"—one which no one deliberately bargains for, but which invariably happens each year in one form or another. For example:

One year one freshman got hit by an automobile and hurt pretty badly. As soon as the chapter members had taken him to the hospital they headed for the newspaper downtown and begged the city editor not to publish the story of the accident. It happened that the man on the desk that night had been a member of the injured boy's fraternity, and after some deliberation he killed the story. If there had been anyone else at the copy desk the probability is the story would have gone out to every newspaper in the state.

And—strange as it may seem to some fraternity men—the organization blamed in such cases is not the individual chapter, but rather the fraternity system and, even more, the University of Kentucky.

Or, take the case of the boy who had the stomach hemorrhage and had to be carried seven miles by an understandably frightened pledge class. Only a single instance, yes, but it takes only one serious mishap to outrage the public—and outrage them justifiably, since such things are really so unnecessary.

And, again, there are this year's two prize cases. One, the case of a freshman who has been in bed with a case of bronchial pneumonia since March 7; and the other of a sophomore pledge who spent four days in the hospital with the same ailment. The doctor who treated them said that in each case the disorder was due to fatigue and exposure.

These latter are, of course, only typical cases—they recur every year in greater or lesser degrees. And they don't tend to make the victims' families enthusiastic supporters of fraternities.

But the point we want to make is this: we have seen "road trips" from both vantage points, and we say, and there are quite a few fraternity men and any number of disgusted onlookers who will agree with us, that even if the practice lived up to the end that is claimed for it, all the synthetically-derived brotherhood in Kentucky is not worth risking the health of one freshman!

We believe such practices to be childish, hypocritical, undignified, and outdated. And we believe that the above and other similar facts indicate they are even injurious and potentially dangerous.

Furthermore, we think UK fraternity men are naive and stubborn when they take the attitude that criticism of Hell Week activities is necessarily criticism of the fraternity system itself. The two are not inseparable. Again the facts prove it:

- 1) Practically every national office in the country has asked its individual chapters to abolish Hell Week for the sake of the system as a whole.
- 2) There are some universities in the nation (most of which are recognized as being "progressive") which have either done away with hazing entirely or are taking active steps to finish the job.
- 3) There are individual chapters throughout the country which have voluntarily done away with Hell Week and have suffered no visible ill effects (There is one on this campus, Delta Tau Delta; and we apologize to its members for having neglected to mention it previously.)

No, we don't think Hell Week and fraternities are inseparable. If they were, viewing the facts cited above, we should not think much of fraternities.

We believe instead that Hell Weeks are simply hangovers from the days of the turtle-neck sweater and college pennant and camouflaged Model T, when it was regarded as "smart" to haze undergraduates. Today hazing has become simply a means through which individuals who are superior in no other way may indulge themselves in a superficial superiority over younger men.

This hazing system still continues in varying degrees in a few of the campus honoraries. In the K-Club, for example, and in Pershing Rifles, whose "rough night" has been termed "as bad as any Hell Week" by numerous fraternity men.

Whether these hazing lotus-eaters know it or not, the University of Kentucky is progressing, and at least in this respect the student body as a whole is further advanced than many of its components.

The advocates of hazing have had more than time enough to clean house. The Interfraternity council and the Student Government association have both tried to put a stop to the worst of it. The former, although conscientious in its effort, is not taken seriously by the individual chapters; the latter is being kept powerless.

The University, however, is responsible for the welfare of the students, and being responsible, has the authority to do something about the situation.

Therefore, we believe the University should take the necessary action.

Tournaments Come And Go —But Still No Field House

BY BUSH BROOKE

Sports writers Sunday morning extolled the praises of little Inez for capturing the 1941 Kentucky high school basketball crown. With glowing pride they described how 25,000 persons had "paid" admissions to the six sessions of the state finals for a new attendance record. We felt rather good about that—for a while.

Then we saw another story about the final game of the Indiana state scholastic tourney which deflated our ego considerably. What interested us more than who won the championship was the fact that 15,000 fans had jammed the Butler Field house in Indianapolis for the last session only.

That 25,000 persons "paid" for the games is an understatement of fact. The scribes would have been more accurate if they had said "tough" or "jammed" their way into antiquated Alumni gymnasium. At times, even the players had trouble finding room in which to play.

Some writers mentioned a field house as a solution to the problem. We were cut to the quick. The field house subject is a very tender spot on the University anatomy. Sure, we agree a field house will solve the problem. The crowds which packed into the Euclid arena the past two or three years have proved that?

The basketball squad, ranked in cage circles year after year as one of the nation's best, is forced to schedule inter-sectional games on foreign floors because we cannot accommodate them here.

Our bid for the Southeastern Conference tournament was accepted this year, but the meet was held in Louisville's Jefferson County Armory where about three times more spectators could be seated than here.

We have been told that funds are not available for a field house program, and that considerable money has been spent to construct new buildings to replace outmoded structures. Certainly the Alumni bandbox is outmoded. Every now and then we read where a survey or plans have been requested drawn for a field house, but that's as far as the University's ever gotten. A lot of hemming and hawing will be heard from various quarters for a field house for a few weeks, but will gradually die until the first packed house next year. Then the vicious circle begins all over again.

MUSICAL MUTTERINGS

By BILL PENICK

One of America's most versatile and consequently most popular orchestras is Fred Waring and his band.

Fred differs from most other modern dance bands in several respects. He does not attempt to maintain his popularity by recordings, and his arrangements stress the melody of the tune rather than its swing potentialities.

Featuring many vocal groups including probably the best glee club in the business, Waring gives each tune varied treatment and one seldom grows tired listening to Fred's music. His music is heard each week day except Saturday at 3:00 p.m. over the NBC Blue network for a fifteen minute program.

One of the band's current policies is to select a tune each week, which is featured on every program for the week. On each program the song is given a different treatment. This enables the organization to get the most out of the tune, and at the same time, the radio audience hears sax solo in between. Recording officials say this one will outlast any of the band's earlier records.

Also recently released is the instrumental number Turn Right, Turn Left. Joe Lippman titled his original jump tunes Turn Right and Turn Left because, when driving to the Meadowbrook every night from Long Island last December, he invariably, every night, had to ask, "Now which way do we turn?"

Regardless of his confusion in driving to work, Lippman really did pen a couple of fine tunes in these, and the Dorsey band swings along at a solid beat on both sides.

Another good swing band returned to the music world via the recording studios a few weeks back. Harry James, America's greatest trumpet player since the immortal Bix Beiderbecke, leads his group on a tremendous arrangement of Rimsky-Korsakoff's The Flight of The Bumble Bee.

FRED WARING AND GLEE CLUB

nearly all departments of the orchestra and accompanying vocalists.

Because of its size, nearly fifty musicians, Waring's group does not play many dances, limiting its performance to radio and stage shows.

T. Dorsey's older brother, Jimmy, is taking the Great White Way by storm these days, with his fine arrangement of Amapola. This tune, another old one brought back with a modern treatment, fits the Dorsey band's qualifications perfectly.

Recently recorded by the band and arranged by Toots Camarata, Amapola features a double vocal, by Bob Eberle first, and then by Helen O'Connell. Dorsey also takes a short

UK Needs Strollers, Magazine

BEHIND IVIED WALLS By ALLENBY E. WINER

Every year at Pennsylvania and Cornell and other noteworthy institutions, the campus literary and musical giants get into conference for about two months and work themselves into a lather over stocks of original musical scores and scripts. At the end of the two months of concentration they select the best campus musical compositions and dialogues and weld them together into an original musical comedy designed to be staged by campus talent, through and through.

From such collegiate musical shows have come hundreds of successful song-writers and actors. Broadway today and boast of numerous college-trained writers and composers who got their start in the college musicale. Hollywood knows of hundreds more.

On this campus there seems to be the necessary talent for such a venture; the staging equipment is available at the Guignol theatre and acting and singing talent is not low. A new and energetic Strollers could very well produce a campus musical-comedy without too much effort. The student body would, without doubt, rally to the support of such an undertaking, for a musicale comedy here would be something new and the likes of which many local collegians have never seen.

Another worthy effort here would be that of organizing and supporting a campus literary publication to be issued quarterly or even yearly. Student literary efforts are easily discouraged when there is not even a local market to carry short stories, essays and poetry, etc. The most disheartening thing confronting young writers is the virtual impossibility of able editors it might easily establish a worthy reputation and encourage literary efforts on a campus which, unfortunately, seems not to care much about encouraging young talent.

In an earlier column it was predicted that the University Simphonietta would soon become recognized as one of the leading symphonic groups hereabouts. The prophesy was not wrong. Those who heard the Sunday Memorial hall concert by this talented organization have nothing but praise for its efforts. At last, good symphony has arrived.

Now that Guignol's "Margin For Error" is history and the cat is out of the bag as to "who killed Cock-Robin", it might be pertinent to say here that in the future Guignol ought to stop presenting chaff and should lend its efforts to something a bit more worthy in the way of plays. In its last two productions, and most certainly in the latest, Guignol acting has by far outdone the plays, and it does seem a shame to see good acting go to waste in such a pitiful manner.

The Vice Of The People

Student's Lament

Heitically (the university) is becoming a drudge.

New grass and sunlight are not conducive to study.

Neither is romance an aid to education.

Except to a liberal education.

But where there is an ill there must be a cure.

Possibly we could banish all females.

Or cut off the heads of the males.

Only this is 1941, not the middle ages.

So we recommend a choice:

The life of monks in cloisters, solitude and study.

With trade schools for engineers, counting-houses for commerce students.

And slave-galleys for journalists.

Or the vow of chastity for all.

Day season, Harry also gives us a sweet version of a beautiful Irish ballad, A Little Bit Of Heaven. Reverse is a Jewish chant, Eli Eli, a side again dominated by the leader.

Larry Clinton shows a mellow sax on his new theme. Isn't It Time To Fall In Love. Like all good theme songs, it is full-bodied, easily identified and typical of the band's style. Peggy Mann, formerly with Enoch Light, sings. Larry's reed department is one of the most harmonious we've heard.

Running Wild

By JOHN CARRICO

Jim King, Wildcat all-conference center, contemplates leaving school. He will join the ranks which have already received Noah Mullins and Jim McGraw. King says he is tired of school and wants to get away. Mullins quit earlier in spring practice but is expected to return to the squad soon. Kirwan has promised not to discipline him and to treat him as any other member of the squad.

McGraw was the first to quit after Kirwan had told him "football and honeymooning don't mix." The loss of McGraw leaves the Wildcats with only one end with varsity experience—Alan Parr.

Ab Kirwan has made a change which he thinks will be very beneficial. He has moved Junie Jones from his last year's position of blocking back to the right half post. From this spot Junie will perform as a running back. Running will be nothing new to Junie as he was the best ground gainer for DuPont Manual in his high school days.

Other changes included moving Tommy Ewing from right half to quarterback; Tom Zinn from full-back to quarterback; and Bob Oenbrink from tackle to guard.

To those who remember Andy Slatt (and there is a large number) it will be of interest to learn that he is coaching and teaching at Boy's

Central High school in Butte, Montana. Andy produced a football team which won the Class A title. He says he can't get Kentucky off his mind and that he will probably come to Lexington for the coaching school in August.

Although it comes a little belatedly, we still wish to congratulate Carl Staker for having been elected to the captaincy of the Kentucky basketball team. Carl is a real leader and we're sure that he's the man to fill the vacancy left by Lee Huber. ODK beat the cage squad to the punch in recognizing Carl's leadership; the national honorary tapped him last year.

The boys say that they won't tell us that Staker has plenty on the ball this year. A poll of the pool room shows that he'll probably be Frank Moseley's meal ticket this season.

Koo Discusses Crisis, Chinese Education Loss

War-Time Schools Have Walls, Desks Of Mud, Straw

By MILDRED MURRAY

Loss of educational facilities is felt more deeply by the Chinese than the loss of territory, according to Dr. T. Z. Koo, Chinese leader of the World Student Christian Federation, who spoke on the present crisis of China at a special convocation Tuesday afternoon in Memorial hall and again Tuesday in the Union building.

Picturesque in his Chinese dress, the lecturer spoke English fluently and gestured expressively. He described the western trek of the University and colleges and pointed out the great difficulties the Chinese must overcome in order to build up their nation educationally.

Building of even larger schools which had to leave the eastern coast and make the western trek are made of mud and straw, he said. Desks are molded from clay and have a plank across the top on which to write, according to Doctor Koo. "A Chinese student can eat for one month on an American dollar," the speaker said, "because he gets little more than rice and soup."

Learning Better Than Wealth

"The Chinese point of view is to build up the nation through education. Learning and education mean more than wealth," Dr. Koo said. He continued that they were trying to build up the nation at the same time they were resisting and fighting the Japanese. The Chinese sto-gan is "Resist, Fight, Build the Nation."

Doctor Koo attributes the success of Mahatma Gandhi, the Indian leader, to his patterning his life like Jesus Christ's. Although Gandhi is not a Christian, he looks at Jesus as a man "who believes in truth and not violence." The Indians are trying to win their independence without battle or violence, without military force, or secret police, he said.

At the Tuesday night meeting, Dr. Koo discussed the basic political, social, intellectual, and ethical revolutions China has undergone in the last four years.

His Generation of Change

"My generation is a generation of change which can not hope to live to see the new China of which we dream and for which we work," he said in explaining the re-making of his country.

He declared that China is on its way to becoming a democracy and described changes in family relationships, education methods, and religion Christianity is helping to reawaken China, according to Doctor Koo.
